

THIS BLACK GIRL READS

SUMMER

reading challenge

Want to challenge yourself this summer and win some great prizes too? Then join 'The Summer Reading Challenge.' This challenge was created to, of course, challenge you, but also help you decolonize and diversify your reading and share your journey! No pressure though, read what you want or follow the prompts. Don't forget to share it with the community using the hashtag #ThisBlackGirlReads. To register visit: thisblackgirlreads.ca

Read a poetry collection by a BIPOC author	Read a book that makes you feel represented	Read a Graphic Novel with a BIPOC MC	Read a book that focuses on Mental Health	Read a book with a Deaf/Hard of Hearing MC
Read a book by a Middle Eastern Author	Read a book about non-American history	Read a short story collection by an author from the Harlem Renaissance	Read a book about Productivity or Planning	Read a book under 150 pages
Read a book by a African author	Read a book with a Nonbinary MC	Read a book by a Jamaican author	Read a book set somewhere you've never been	Read a book by a Trinidadian author
Read a book featuring a celebration	Read a book by an Asian author	Read a book by a Canadian author	Read a book by an activist	Read a book about nature
Read a book set in the Caribbean	Read a Romance book	Read a book by a Black British author	Read a book from a series	Read a book that has been on your shelf for years

THIS BLACK GIRL READS

SUMMER

reading challenge

BOOK COUNT	TITLE	AUTHOR	DATE